

A Quick Guide to Orlando's Hotels & Resorts

Listed by Location

Scroll directly to page 4 for TI's list of Orlando Hotels & Resorts

Orlando is home to countless accommodations (at last count Orlando's offerings included some 450 hotels which translates into roughly 112,000 rooms along with some 26,000 vacation homes) ranging from themed hotels to five-star resorts and everything in between. Below you find a list of practically every property in and around the main tourist districts – many of which are reviewed (and soon to be reviewed) in full on this site.

Each hotel and resort listed below falls under one (or in some cases more than one) of the following categories:

$ Budget: located within a reasonable distance from the main tourist offerings (generally no more than 18 miles though often much less), clean and reasonably comfortable rooms and public areas, includes basic amenities though there are generally few to no frills, usually there is a pool though generally no other recreational offerings. Most often there are no restaurants located onsite though occasionally a complimentary continental breakfast may be available. Think 1950's motel but with modernized facilities and you've got the general idea. Per night rack rate pricing (base on double occupancy) runs under $100

$$ Moderate: located within a reasonable distance from the main tourist offerings (generally no more than 18 miles though often much less), comfortable rooms often featuring a variety of types (suites, kitchenettes, Kidsuites, an so on), often includes additional amenities and conveniences such as a mini fridge and or microwave in the room, and there is often 1 or more casual restaurants located right onsite if not right nearby. Some may offer a small convenience-style market or store (with snacks, souvenirs, sundries and select supplies), most feature a pool and often times a small number of additional recreational facilities. Onsite childcare may be offered, limited business services may be available, and a complimentary continental or expanded buffet breakfast may be available as well. Per night rack rate pricing (based on double occupancy) runs between $101 and $199 per night

$$$ Superior: located within a reasonable distance from the main tourist areas (generally no more than 18 miles though often times much less), spacious well appointed rooms, usually offers several room types (suites, Kidsuites, kitchenettes, and so on), extensive amenities (both in-room and throughout the entire resort), numerous guest services, extensive recreational facilities, guest services or a concierge is available and usually sells tickets to area attractions, often has a concierge level or club level available, generally offers several restaurants catering to varying clientele including everything from fast food to fine dining, usually features a variety of shops selling everything from souvenirs to designer resort-wear to snacks and supplies, at times including a larger market-style or convenience-style store, a variety of business services are generally available, usually offers some type of onsite childcare as well as children's activities, often extensively themed or offering a particularly impressive interior décor along with landscaped grounds. Per night rack rate pricing (based on double occupancy) runs between $200 and $299 per night.

$$$$ Luxurious: located within a reasonable distance from the main tourist areas (generally no more than 18 miles though often times much less), spacious well appointed rooms, offers a variety of room types (suites, Kidsuites, and so on), extensive and luxurious amenities, numerous guest services many of which are indulgent, extensive and often very unique recreational facilities, concierge service, concierge or club level rooms are usually available, the resort often times exudes an extremely upscale atmosphere and lavish luxurious facilities throughout, extensive business services available, lavishly decorated and landscaped throughout, onsite child care is generally available, onsite dining is generally the best in the area though family appropriate casual dining may not always available, often caters to a very discerning clientele unless otherwise noted. Per night rack rate pricing (based on double occupancy) runs $300 and up.

Additional Categories include:

Family / Casual: Properties that fall under this category are appropriate for families traveling with children of generally any age. They offer comfortable surroundings, homey amenities, some offer onsite casual dining, some offer children's programs and activities, and you'll feel welcome wherever you go whether you're traveling with tots or teens.

Family / Upscale: Properties that fall under this category, while appropriate for families traveling with children, are generally more appropriate for families with older children (of at least school age though preferably tweens and teens) who are used to a more upscale environment and can consistently act in accordance with a high-end setting. They feature upscale surroundings, a slew of amenities, and while they often have onsite children's programs, select facilities may cater only to the adults.

✦ A handful of properties fall between the casual and upscale categories, offering upscale surroundings and amenities while still catering to those traveling with children of any age. Properties falling into this category will be noted appropriately.

Themed: Themed hotels are hotels that are decorated and designed to replicate a particular theme – for instance an exotic island theme runs throughout Disney's Polynesian Resort, a television show theme runs throughout the Nickelodeon Hotel, a movie theme runs throughout Disney's All Star Movies Resort – even different time periods can create a theme as seen at Disney's BoardWalk Resort and Grand Floridian Resort. Some hotels, while not following a specific theme throughout the property, feature a select number of themed rooms – think Kidsuites (for example the Portofino Bay Hotel features a select number of Suessian-themed kidsuites, the Royal Pacific Resort features a select number of Jurassic Park themed kidsuites, and the Nickelodeon Hotel features Sponge Bob Square Pants and other cartoon themed kidsuites).

Business / Leisure: Properties that fall under this category, while catering primarily to the business set, are also appropriate for leisure travel.

Leisure / Business: Properties that fall under this category, while catering to the leisure set, still offer an array of amenities that make it an appropriate choice for the business traveler.

Each listing also has a Star Rating - an explanation of which you'll find just below:

TI's Resort and Hotel Star Ratings Explained

- * A basic, no-frills, though a reasonably comfortable hotel
-  Additional amenities, recreational offerings, and guest services ensure that you don't have to do without, that you'll be reasonably comfortable during your stay, and that your experience is more vacation like and enjoyable. Some of the available services, amenities, and recreational facilities are specifically geared for families
-  Offers the comforts and conveniences of home and then some. Numerous activities and recreational offerings are available onsite, many of which are appropriate for the entire family. A variety of restaurants and shops are also available onsite allowing for added convenience.
- * The best of the best in every way. Extensive and often luxurious facilities (though generally with a price tag to match) ensure that you may never even have to leave the property – or even want to. Practically every guest service and amenity, a good portion of which are indulgent and luxurious, is available. As a Note: only a very few resorts meet this criteria and as a general rule they cater to families accustomed to an extremely lucrative and refined lifestyle (there are however exceptions and they are noted as such within the individual listings).
